And Arkadiusz Wisniewski - Mayor of Opole

We feel greatly honored to invite you to participate in the International Conference on contemporary social issues. This has already been the third meeting of Science Clubs, PhD students and students. The aim of this year's Conference is to make a presentation of and discuss different positions and approaches that attempt to describe and explain existing contemporary social problems, whether they are local, nationwide, or global. We would also like to look at the role which education and social work play in their recognition and solving problems related to them.

Moreover, the aim of the Conference is to exchange scientific experience, present results of studies carried out in this area at many universities and scientific research centers in Poland and abroad, as well as to essay to diagnose pro-issues which trouble contemporary societies.

We extend a particular invitation to participate in the Conference to young people who have just set out on their scientific path, as well as to more experienced students and researchers – experts in contemporary social problems. We offer the following thematic areas for discussion:

- 1. Social problems of the individual and family in local aspects.
- 2. Social problems of the global range.
- 3. Social stratification and the quality of life of individuals and families.
- 4. The availability of education on the local and international level.
- 5. Social problems of individuals and families as an ethical challenge to many professional and social groups.

We are also open to accept other papers which would relate to the thematic area of the Conference.

The Conference will be held at Students' Culture Centre of Opole University, Opole, ul. Katowicka 95.

Please, send your filled in registration form by April 10, 2017 to the following address: sknpsuo@gmail.com. Please name your file, using your surname and short title of your paper/presentation, according to the following formula: name_shortened title.doc(x).

We look forward to meeting you!
